CURRENCY REFORM THE BILL'S THEME

HAS BEEN SENT TO BANKING COMMITTEE.

Representative Overstreet Lays It Before Congress—The Bill Is Almost Identical With the Recommendations Made By the Monetary Commission Civil Service Discussion In House

Washington, Jan. 7.—Representative Overstreet of Indiana introduced in the house Thursday a comprehensive bill for carrying out the plan of the monetary commission for the reform of the currency. The bill was referred by Speaker Reed to the committee on banking, and Chairman Walker has arranged to give early hearings to Senator Edmunds ,the chairman of the commission, and perhaps to other members. The bill contains forty-seven sections and embodies in legislative form every feature of the recommendations of the commission.

DISCUSS CIVIL SERVICE.

Grosvenor of Ohio Makes a Strong Speech in Opposition.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The house Thursday promptly resumed the debate on the civil-service question, and Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio took the floor with an elaborate speech in opposition. One of Mr. Grosvenor's statements which evoked an enthusiastic outburst from the galleries was in the nature of a warning that if members refused to listen to the voice of the people in hostility to this law they would not be members of LVIth house of representatives. He argued that the people were overwhelmingly opposed to the law, and said that hundreds of thousands of Republicans felt a secret sympathy with Mayor Van Wyck of New York, who announced that none but Democrats would be appointed to office under the new city government.

Great Britain In the Lead.

Washington, Jan. 7.—There is reason to believe that Great Britain will again take the lead of other nations in the negotiation of reciprocity treaties, under the Dingley tariff act. While other nations were lodging complaints against the terms of the act and of the very limited advantages offered by the reciprocity clauses, the British embassy here has been at work quietly carrying on negotiations for a series of treaties extending the benefits of so much reciprocity as may be obtained under the act to the British possessions in the West Indies.

Bryan Not Going to Turkey.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The committee on foreign relations will consider, Wednesday, the confirmation of Col. Charles Page Bryan as minister to China. Senator Mason announces that he will go before the committee if necessary to urge the confirmation of Mr. Bryan. The senator says there is no truth in the report that the President sent Mr. Bryan to Turkey instead of China.

Will Strengthen the Artillery.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The senate committee on military affairs has ordered a favorable report on the bill increasing the military force of the country to the extent of two regiments of artillery. The purpose of the bill is to afford a sufficient number of men to protect the new guns and mortars which are being put in place.

Little Business in the Senate.

Washington, Jan. 7.—While the senate was in session two hours Thursday, practically no business was transacted beyond the passage of a few unimportant bills.

For Fusion in Kansas.

Topeka, Kas., Jan. 7.—The conference between the Populist state central committee and the chairmen of the various county committees has closed. The sentiment was strong for continuing a fusion arrangement with the Democrats on the county, state and congressional tickets. A conference of free silver Republicans, Democrats and Populists will be held here Jan. 11. At that time the details of the fusion deal will be agreed upon.

BOTH SIDES CONFIDENT.

Kurtz Men Claim 75 to 70 Against Hanna, but He Contests Two.

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 7.—Conservative estimates place the legislative vote at 75 to 70 against Hanna. The workers of the senator claim seventy-one votes and assurances of the necessary two additional votes and possibly four more. The opposition insists that Hanna will never have seventy votes on joint ballot and that they have gained two votes since the legislature adjourned over till Monday. Before the chairmanships and preferred places and other patronage are disposed of the opposition say that Hanna's vote will be reduced considerably below seventy, which is now at least three short of enough to elect.

Included in the list of those supporting Hanna are Representatives Droste and Lane, silver Republican fusionists from Cincinnati, who are counted on for Jeptha Garrard. The developments indicate that Garrard would not only be voted for on the ballots for senator, but that he might lead on the first ballot if the present efforts are successful to make him the free silver Republican candidate.

So far the opposition to Hanna is not only holding its men well in line, but it has executed all the plans provided for previous to the caucuses on last Saturday night. The opposition managers say they are having no trouble to hold their men out against Hanna, but admit their trouble in finding any candidate for whom all the "bolting" Republicans and the Democratic members will vote.

A call has been issued by the Republican state executive committee for a mass convention of Republicans to be held in this city next Monday afternoon to protest against the attempt to defeat Senator Hanna.

M'KINLEY TO END WAR.

Believed He Will Not Long Delay Action Upon Cuba.

London, Jan. 7.—The Washington correspondent of the Daily Chronicle cables that the administration is convinced that the autonomy granted to Cuba is acceptable neither to the Cubans nor the loyalists, and that the present policy of the Spanish government cannot end the war.

The correspondent adds that all reports reaching Washington show that the destitution in Cuba is of the most horrible kind, and that voluntary contributions will not suffice to relieve a tithe of it.

The writer further says he learns from a person who enjoys President McKinley's confidence that When Mr. McKinley is satisfied that the present condition cannot be relieved by contributions from the United States so long as the war continues, a note from Washington will inform Spain that the war must stop. The president, the correspondent declares, is horrified by the accounts of suffering and misery, and he will not remain passive much longer.

PASSED BY THE SENATE.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 7.—The Republican senatorial apportionment bill will become a law on the statute books of Illinois as soon as Governor Tanner affixes his signature to an engrossed copy of the measure. Senators Anthony, Humphrey and Harding, Republicans, were absent.

CZAR OF RUSSIA MAKES A DEMAND

THAT COUNTRY ALSO ASKS FOR A CHINESE LEASE.

Britain and Japan Oppose—Russia Would Like to "Rent" Port Arthur and the Approaches to Pekin—Great Britain Stands For Free Ports Or No Guaranteed Loan

London, Jan. 7.—According to a special dispatch from Shanghai Russia is endeavoring to obtain terms similar to Germany's for the occupation of Port Arthur and the Kiao-Tong peninsulas from a point considerably north of Talien-Wen. It is believed that the attitude of Great Britain and Japan will frustrate her designs.

The Hong Kong correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says: "The Russian occupation of Port Arthur completely blocks the entrance to Pekin and it is imperative that the court should be transferred to Nankin, the southern capital."

It is learned on excellent authority that in the event of Great Britain guaranteeing the new Chinese loan the concessions required will be the opening of new treaty ports, open to all nations alike.

According to a special dispatch from Shanghai, the existence of an Anglo-Japanese alliance is openly asserted there in well-informed quarters—an alliance to maintain the status quo in China and Korea, and to declare the independence of Korea under the joint guaranty of Great Britain, Russia and Japan.

The Daily Graphic publishes a dispatch from Baron Hayashi Tadasou, Japanese ambassador to Russia, to the Japanese government, intimating on the authority of the German ambassador at St. Petersburg, Prince von Radolin, that no understanding existed between Germany and Russia with reference to the occupation of Kiao-Chou.

GERMANY'S OBJECT PEACEFUL.

Seeks Only the Prosperous Development of China.

Berlin, Jan. 7.—The North German Gazette in a semi-official article says: "The development of affairs in east Asia is becoming more tranquil. Tension was caused by the political antagonism of Great Britain and Russia, but behind the political antagonism now appears an economic one, which, however, should be arranged with little difficulty. There is no reason why one state should exclusively undertake the Chinese loan. Prudent considerations suggest the advisability of an international arrangement.

"The main purport of the Chinese agreement shows in full light the German objects in eastern Asia, which are free from all violence. Germany does not seek to force her way into Chinese territory as a conquerer, but she will use as peaceful co-operator in the prosperous development of her affairs, those powers which the Chinese government conceded her."

Herr Richter, in the Freisinnige, thinks an unnecessary noise has been raised for what he calls an omelet, and he says he cannot conceive any commercial advantage in the acquisition of Kiao-Chou.

Sneers at Great Britain.

Vienna, Jan. 7.—The Deutsche Zeitung, echoing German feeling, says: "Great Britain has suffered a crushing defeat, but there is no fear of war. The British lion roars, but he does not bite. All civilized nations ought to be grateful to Emperor William for having destroyed the myth of Great Britain's universal domination."

Claims It Was a Deal.

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 7—John L. Berkheimer, who was clerk of the committee presided over by the introducer of the Merriman railroad tax law, has written what he alleges is an expose of the railroad legislation of last winter. He charges that the bill was prepared by the railroad managers, who were consulted concerning all phases of its progress from the day of its introduction until it was passed as a compromise for all other railroad bills. He also says that it will increase the taxes but $115,000 annually. Its friends claim $300,000.

Seek a Jury in Draper Trial.

Jacksonville, Ill., Jan. 7.—The Draper trial has come to a standstill and it is uncertain when it will commence again. When the judge ordered extra bailiffs appointed to go out and see if they could find 100 men who had not read the papers or formed or expressed an opinion, the lawyers for the defense filed a motion that before business proceeded the bailiffs and venire of 100 should be present. The court allowed the motion. Charges of attempted crooked work are being investigated.

ARRANGEMENT MADE FOR A CONVENTION

COAL MEN WILL MEET AT CHICAGO, JAN 17.

Attendance To Be Large—Determined Fight Will Be Made For the Abolition of the Ohio Differential —Representatives of Many States To Be Present.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 7.—The railroad coal operators for the Pittsburg district met Thursday to hear the report of the operators' committee sent to Columbus by the last joint convention to fix the mining rate, and also to arrange for the interstate joint convention of operators and miners, to be held in Chicago Jan. 17. About forty operators were present. Every one was urged to attend the Chicago meeting.

The convention will be composed of one delegate to each 100 miners in the district, but they will cast but two votes in the convention. The operators from the Pittsburg district will also cast two votes, making four votes in the district. The Ohio, Indiana and Illinois operators will have four votes from each state. Should the operators and miners of West Virginia attend they will have the same representation as the other states. The following resolution was adopted: "That the action of the committee at Columbus regarding the adoption of the Ohio screen and price by Pittsburg operators or of the Pittsburg screen and price by the Ohio operators be approved and our committee instructed to adhere to this demand absolutely."

This resolution means that the Pittsburg operators will make a determined fight in Chicago for the abolition of the Ohio differential.

In the house Mr. McGinnis introduced a bill taxing telephones $10 each per annum.

The senate committee on elections ordered a favorable report on Mr. Crawford's primary election bills, together with the amendments prepared by the author.

The cause of the disaster was the collapse of a large icehouse being erected for the P. D. Armour Packing company of Chicago by Bennett & Ashley of the Ann Arbor and Toledo railroad. The dead are:

CONNORS of Ann Arbor, neck broken and body crushed.

UNKNOWN MAN, supposed to be James MacDonald of Milan, body bruised and crushed beyond recognition.

DURRANT IS HANGED

The Noted Murderer Met His Fate Today.

THE TRAP WAS SPRUNG AT 10.20 O'CLOCK.

Condemned Man Kept Cool To The Very End.

FEDERAL SUPREME COURT WOULD NOT INTERFERE.

When Word To That Effect Was Received, the Execution Took Place In the Presence of One Hundred and Fifty People Who Were Admitted By Card—Did Not Weaken, and Made No Address to the People—Law Is Avenged.

San Quentin Prison, Cal., Jan. 7—Theodore Durrant is dead.

He was calm to the last, and did not address the spectators.

Upon receipt of word that the Federal Supreme court had refused to interfere in the case, the murderer was hanged in the prison at 10:20 o'clock morning, in the presence of one hundred and fifty persons who had gained admission by card.

THEODORE DURRANT.

Governor Budd was present, holding a card in his own name.

It was thought that Durrant might break down when he faced death, but he did not do so. He met his fate impassionately, and said he had nothing to say. He spent a restless night and slept only three hours. This morning he seemed nervous and unstrung. No one but his parents, spiritual advisors and attorneys were permitted to see him, and even the members of the death watch were not allowed to tell anything that occurred in the condemned man's cell.

Durrant's father has told Warden Hale that he would not be present to see Theodore die. The warden approved his resolution.

Thursday Chaplain Drahms again visited Durrant. After prayer Durrant protested his innocence of the crime of which he had been convicted, and further stated that he would proclaim his innocence on the scaffold.

About 150 invitations were issued, some at the request of Durrant's attorneys. The warden will not allow any cameras in the gallows-room, and as soon as Durrant is pronounced dead by the physicians everyone will be compelled to retire from the room. His wish is that no one but relatives be permitted to see his face after death, and his wishes will be respected.

Durrant's death will not end this celebrated case. After his interview with his client Thursday Eugene Deuprey reiterated his belief in Durrant's innocence. He declared that the condemned man was the victim of police conspiracy and persecution and that the case would not rest until the real murderer was caught and those concerned in the persecution of his client punished. Rev. George J. Gibson, pastor of the church where the murders took place, is the man Deuprey charges with the crime.

HOLDUP MEN WORK IN THE LINE CITY

M. MOLLESTEAD ATTACKED BY FOOTPADS.

He Turned On Them, However, and Discharged His Revolver Several Times—The Second Attempt to Rob Him—One Thug Was Short and the Other Long.

Beloit, Jan. 7—While on his way home from the Catholic Social club hop two thugs attempted to hold up Mace Mollestead, the well known musician. Mr. Mollestead refused to be robbed and urning on the highwaymen dred a number of shots at which they ran away.

This is the second experience of the kind that Mr. Mollestead has past through within the past few days. One week ago while walking home carrying his violin, he passed two men who were standing in the shadow of a building on Fourth street. After he had gone by one of them struck him with a brass knuckle. He was game, however, and swaggering to his feet started after the thugs who immediately took to their heels.

Since that attack Mr. Mollestead has carried a revolver and while walking up Fourth street was carrying the weapon in his hand concealed up his sleeve. As he arrived opposite the Holcomb residence at 1103 Fourth street, two men sprang onto the walk behind him and called to him to stop, saying they would kill him if he did not. Mollestead turned quickly and fired two shots at them. The robbers started to run at sight of the pistol, and disappeared in the direction of the river. Mr. Mollestead says one was tall and the other a short man. Both wore ulsters with the collars turned up, and their caps pulled down over their eyes.

Mr. Mollestead is the leader of Mollestead's orchestra, and often carries the funds of that organszation with him after playing at a dance or party. He thinks the motive was robbery.

CAPTAIN NORCROSS TAKES AN APPEAL

CIRCUIT COURT TO PASS ON THE CASE.

Judge Sale Decided That Certain Money Was Due the Estate of Catherine Menzies From Mr. Norcross, But the Latter Carries Matter to Higher Tribunal.

In the circuit court yesterday the case concerning the estate of Catherine Menzies and Pliny Norcross was adjourned until Staurday at 9 a. m.

Mrs. Catherine Menzies died at her home in the town of Harmony in 1881 leaving property to the value of about $5,000. In 1882 Captain Pliny Norcross was appointed "administrator with will annexed."

In the fall of 1892, it is alleged, Mr. Norcross loaned $1,700 of the trust funds to his sister, Ellen S. Webb, of Denver, who invested it in two city lots in Denver and Mr. Norcross took, as security for the money, a trust deed. These lots have since depreciated in value, and in his final account filed in the county court last September, is is set forth, Mr. Norcross sought to charge the estate with the $1700 loaned and about $200 unpaid interest. On the hearing of the account, James Vincent, as trustee of the trust created by the will of Catherine Menzies, objected to the allowance of this note and mortgage, and asked the court to charge Mr. Norcross personally with the same.

The case was tried before Judge Sale last July, E. D. McGowan appearing for Mr. Vincent, while Mr. Norcross appeared in person and by his attorneys, Ruger & Norcross. Judge Sale decided in favor of the estate, and found Mr. Norcross personally liable for the note and trust deed in the sum of $2,142, and ordered him to pay the same to Mr. Vincent.

The case was then appealed to the circuit court, and when it came up yesterday it was adjourned on account of the illness of Attorney C. E. Pierce, of the firm of Smith & Pierce, who have been engaged in the place of Ruger & Norcross by Mr. Norcross.

DEATH OF JOSHUA THAYER

The Father of Mrs. Helen Baker Is No More

A peculiarly sad incident of the holiday season was the death of Joshua Thayer, which occurred at his home near Palmyra, Dec. 30, at midnight. Mr. Thayer was one of the oldest and most highly esteemed residents of southern Wisconsin, and his demise will cause regret to many aside from his immediate relationship.

He was born in Hinsdale, Mass., in 1820, and spent his entire life in farming. When he was about eighteen years of age he came with his parents to Michigan, and in 1839 came to Fulton, this state, where he resided until 1841, when he married Miss Diana Young, of Pennsylvania, and moved onto the farm at Palmyra, where he has resided ever since. He was one of a family of thirteen children, only one of whom, Mrs. Levi Munger of Palmyra, is still living. About thirty years ago his first wife died, and a year after he took unto himself a second wife, Mrs. Martha Morse, who died about a year ago. He was the father of ten children, six of whom are living. Two sons, Joseph and Joshua, both married, are living on farms near Palmyra, and four daughters, Mrs. Alice Coburn, at Palmyra; Mrs. Helen Baker, at Janesville; Mrs. Mattie Twiliger, at Chicago, and Mrs. Louie West in Dakota. All the children were with him at the last, except Mrs. West.

POTATO CARS IN THE TRAINS

Stovepipe Sticking Out of the Door Tells the Story.

Cars loaded with potatoes go south over the C. & N. W. railroad frequently nowadays. Each car has a piece of stovepipe protruding from a hole in the car door and smoke is generally pouring from the pipe. A stove is in every car and the fires must be kept going all the time the potatoes are enroute in order to prevent their freezing. The expense, therefore, of shipping in winter is much greater than in the summer time. Only recently twenty-five car loads of Portage county potatoes were shipped to New Orleans. The price paid there by wholesalers in car lots is from seventy-three to seventy-eight cents a bushel. A letter from a New Orleans dealer says that potatoes are now so high there that people cannot afford to buy them.

MR. AIRIS HAS HIS DOG BACK

Rockford Man's Canine Was Lost While in This City.

The Rockford Republic says: "Several days ago Walter Airis went to Janesville on a brief business trip. He took with him for company his dog Budge, whom nearly everybody on the streets of Rockford knows personally or by sight. In some manner Budge got lost in the shuffle in the Wisconsin town, and Walt was obliged to return without him, believing that he had either been stolen or found a new friend. Last night, however, the truant, Budge, returned home dead broke, and without a word to say in explanation of his absence. Some Janesville friend or relative of Walt's evidently found the canine and shipped him home by express in a box. The dog was glad to get back, and received a warm greeting from his numerous friends, who feared that he was a dog-gone dog."

LOVE'S HAPPINESS.

Oh, do you e'er remember, love,
How on one summer's night
We strayed upon the sandy beach
Beneath the soft moonlight,
And as we sat beside the sea
And listened to its roar
I press'd thy hand and vowed, dear one,
To love thee more and more?
Oh, then, indeed, our hearts were light,
And, like the summer flowers,
We drank in love as their frail buds
Drink in the April showers.

The moonbeams with a holy light
Fell on the glassy sea,
The stars shone pure jewel'd gems,
But I—saw only thee.
I heeded not the beauties rare
Which all around us shone.
My thoughts were all on one who was
My beautiful—my own.
I only knew I clasped thy form
Of classic grace with pride.
I heeded not the sea's low voice,
For thou wert by my side.
—Finley Johnson in New York Ledger.

A YOUNG DIPLOMAT.

The proudest sometimes unbend, and the botanical gardens were, for one afternoon, throwing off their usual reserve. Ordinary folk had only to come across Regent's park from Chester gate and present a card at the entrance to the gardens, and the bowler hatted old gentleman at the gate welcomed them as though they were most important members. Miss Llewellyn and Master Kenneth Waller, her friend, walked on the grass in the direction of music.

"Anybody you know here, Miss Llewellyn?"

"I don't suppose so, Kenneth."

"You don't know many people, do you, Miss Llewellyn?"

"Very few."

"Wonder at that," said the small boy, "because you're not bad looking, you know. Did you use to come here when you were well off? Do they sell lemonade here?"

"Seems possible. You think that everybody ought to have plenty of friends?"

"Plenty of friends," said Kenneth wisely, "but one in particular. Wonder how old you are?"

"That," said the young woman good temperedly, "that is the only question, Kenneth, that you must never put to a lady."

"I should guess," he said critically as they sat down in the low chairs near the refreshment tent and watched the people, "that you were about 26." Miss Llewellyn gave a quaint gesture of horror. "Well, 25 then. Fancy!" The small boy whistled amazedly. "Twenty-five and not married yet."

"Young man," said Miss Llewellyn, flushing and affecting a tone of grave severity, "I find your conversation much too personal. You would like lemonade, I think, and two pieces of cake."

The scarlet coated band perched on seats near the glass house, with a crowd of smartly dressed folk in front of them, started a cheerful selection from a comic opera. Miss Llewellyn, a composed young woman in an ordinary way, as young women are who work for their living, found herself in quite a delighted mood. Music can do much when it tries.

"Of course," said her candid guest, with cake at his mouth, "I don't mean to say that you mightn't get married even now. I had an aunt once who was close upon 30 before she could get any one to look at her."

"The instance is encouraging, Kenneth. Don't eat too fast, mind."

"Still," said the youth wisely, "if I were a girl I should be jolly careful not to miss a good opportunity. Are those orchids they're carrying there? Hasn't that chap got a brown face who's telling the men where to take them? Seem to have seen him somewhere before. Shouldn't like to be an orchid, should you, Miss Llewellyn? Why, you'd have to grow out in South America and people would have fearful trouble to find you and risk their lives—hello, brown faced chap's coming this way!"

Miss Llewellyn looked up and then looked down again quickly, and for a moment her face went rather white. Her hand trembled as she held it out.

"Mr. Bradley," she said. "How do you do? I did not expect to see you here."

"I did not expect to see you again anywhere," he said.

There was the pause that comes after the banalities of greeting. Master Waller, not having spoken for quite half a minute, felt that he was in some danger of being overlooked, and coughed.

"This is my little friend, Kenneth Waller," she said. "Kenneth, this is Mr. Bradley."

"What's the matter with your face?" asked the small boy. "Have you been abroad?"

Mr. Bradley placed a broad fist on the round iron table and leaned down toward Master Waller good naturedly. He seemed as confused at the meeting as Miss Llewellyn, and as unprepared with conversation.

"I have been abroad, young man. I've been hunting orchids."

"Are you home for good now?" asked Kenneth.

Miss Llewellyn gripped the parasol that rested in her lap with both hands.

"I can't do any good at home," said Mr. Bradley. "I am off again to South America in a day or two."

"Why don't you stay in London?"

"Nobody asks me to stay."

"Should have thought," said Master Waller, "that you could have got somebody to do that. Have you any foreign postage stamps about you?"

Friendship between the two gentlemen was cemented and made permanent by the production of several foreign stamps and an envelope to place them in. People were coming up to the refreshment tent now, the band having decided to rest for half an hour and recover breath, and Master Waller invited Mr. Bradley to take his chair.

"You don't mind?" asked Bradley of Miss Llewellyn.

"Not at all," she said politely.

"May I smoke?"

"Let me strike the match," interposed Master Waller. "I'm awfully good at that. And tell us some of your adventures."

"They wouldn't interest Miss Llewellyn."

"Girls don't count," said Master Waller. "Tell me. Make it one where you nearly lost your life."

So 10 or 15 minutes were thus occupied, the small boy seated on Bradley's knee and staring at him with open mouthed astonishment. Miss Llewellyn, her head bowed, studied the band programme in apparently a laborious search for the misprints that a musical programme always offers. Bradley told the story well, without obtruding his own share in the adventure, and when he had finished punched the small boy humorously to bring him back from South America to Regent's park.

"And is that story true?" asked the small boy respectfully.

"It has that drawback, youngster."

"Well," said Master Waller, "I'm a man that's awfully fond of adventure, but I shouldn't care for that. What did you think of when that fierce animal was waiting to spring upon you?"

"Guess."

"Can't," said Master Waller. "Can you, Miss Llewellyn?"

She shook her head and again became interested in the band programme. Bradley looked at her and waited for her to speak, but she made no sign. Now, silence may at times be tolerable for grown up folk, but for impatient young men like Master Waller it brings nothing but weariness.

"Is there any chance of seeing these orchids, Mr. Bradley?" asked the youth. "It'll be something to brag about to my people if I could just get a sight of them."

"We'll all go over to the marquee and have a look. Miss Llewellyn, will you come, or shall we leave you here? There's rather a crush."

"Let's leave her," suggested Master Waller. "Miss Llewellyn likes being alone."

"I think I will stay here," she said.

"We shall be back in ten minutes," said Bradley.

Master Waller had to trot to keep up with the long strides of his new friend, but he did not mind this because he felt a kind of reflected glory in being accompanied by the man who had brought home some of the rarest of the amazing specimens in the crowded tent.

"Girls are a nuisance, aren't they?" said Master Waller, looking up confidentially.

"Sometimes," said Bradley.

"She isn't so tiresome, though, as some."

"I think I agree with you there."

"Works awfully hard—too hard, my mamma says."

"No necessity for that surely," said Bradley rather sharply.

"But Miss Llewellyn has to live," urged the small boy. "My mamma says that she was well off for a year or two before her father died, but since that"—

"Her father dead?"

"Here, I say," said Master Waller. "Don't grip a man's shoulder like that."

"Sorry!"

"They come into money, so my mamma says, a few years ago"—

"I remember that."

"And then Miss Llewellyn's governor put all into something, and it never came out again. That's why she has to manage the calisthenic school that I go to. And I say. Can you touch your toes with the tips of your fingers without"—

"Where does she live now?" Mr. Bradley seemed excited.

"In rooms," replied Master Waller volubly. "I've been there to tea along with my sisters. (That's a fine orchid there. You can't see it now. A girl's hat's in the way.) And Miss Llewellyn's got awfully nice furniture and photographs, and"— Master Waller slapped his knee suddenly. "I remember now where I've seen your face before, Mr. Bradley. Only without the short beard."

"Come outside," said Bradley, "and tell me."

They made their way through the crowd and reached the exit. Bradley held his breath and bent to hear the small boy's reply.

"On her dressing table," whispered Master Waller confidentially, "in the beautifullest frame you ever saw, and—Where are you going?"

"Back to Miss Llewellyn," cried Bradley.

"Well, but," said Master Waller protestingly, "wait for me."

Bradley did not obey the young man. He strode across the lawn, past the band, which was playing a quick march that was not quick enough to keep pace with him. Before Master Waller found the two there had been a swift exchange of low sentences that altered their views of the world and made them both think of it as a place where happiness is to be found.

"And why did you refuse me before, dear?"

"Because all my people pressed me to accept you," said Miss Llewellyn.

"The excuse of a very obstinate young woman."

"Why did you—why did you not ask me again?" she demanded.

"Because," said Bradley, "it was just then that your father came into that money."

"The excuse of a very independent man," said Miss Llewellyn, touching with pretty affection the big hand that rested on the round table. "When—when it is that you leave for South America?"

"Not until you tell me to go, dear," he said promptly.

"Here, I say," cried Master Waller, arriving after some difficulty, "you two, don't lose sight of me, mind! Miss Llewellyn, have I been a good boy?"

"I've a great mind to kiss you, Kenneth," she said.

"Rather have some more lemonade."

"As Kenneth declines your suggestion," said Bradley, signaling to a waiter, "may I venture to submit myself"—

"Hush!" said Miss Llewellyn.—Woman at Home.

STATISTICS AS TO DUELING.

Code Is Most Popular in Germany, with France Next.

From the London Mail: More duels are fought in Germany than in any other country. Most of them are student duels, which culminate in nothing more serious than slashed cheeks or torn scalps, which look extremely ugly when healed and often cause much trouble to the sufferer while healing. Of all German university towns Jena and Gottingen are most devoted to the code. In Gottingen the number of duels average one a day, year in and year out. Within the space of four-and-twenty consecutive hours, several years ago, twelve duels were fought in Gottingen. In Jena the record for one day in recent times is twenty-one. Fully 4,000 student duels are fought every year in the German empire. In addition to these there are more serious duels between officers and civilians. Among Germans of more mature years the annual number of duels is about 100. Next to Germany France is most given to the dueling habit. She has every year hundreds of meetings "to satisfy honor"—that is, merely to wipe out insults by crossing swords or firing pistols in such a way as to preclude the slightest chance of injury. In the duel statistics these meetings are not reckoned, as they are far less perilous than even the German student duels. Of the serious duels France can boast fully 1,000 per annum. The majority of these are among army officers. More than half of them result in wounds and nearly 20 per cent in serious wounds. Italy has had 2,759 duels in the last ten years. Some 2,400 of these meetings were fought with swords, 179 with pistols, ninety with rapiers and one with revolvers. In 974 cases the insult originated in newspaper articles or in public letters and scores were purely literary quarrels. More than 700 principles were insulted by word of mouth. Political discussions led to 559 and religious discussions to twenty-nine meetings. Quarrels at the gaming table were responsible for 189. A summary shows that as regards numbers the sequence of dueling countries is: Germany, France, Italy, Austria and Russia.

Useless.

Binks was a good-hearted fellow, but a hopeless inebriate. When not in his cups he was a most exemplary citizen, but at intervals of a few weeks he was wont to indulge in a prolonged "spree," during which he would squander his money, reel about the streets, and conduct himself in a disgraceful manner generally. Then he would "sober up," suffer tortures of remorse, promise better behavior for the future, be a pattern of industry and sobriety for another period, and in some unguarded moment fall again from his high estate, and make a beast of himself in the old way. On one occasion, when he was undergoing the sobering process and was pouring his sorrows into the sympathetic ear of a friend, the latter interrupted him. "Binks," he said, "why don't you end all this? The next time you feel that intolerable craving coming on, old fellow, go and jump off the pier." "It wouldn't do any good," tearfully answered Binks. "I—I can swim!"

Few Crimes in Sweden.

In Sweden a crime is an event. Theft particularly is very rare. Honesty is the fundamental quality of the race, is naturally recognized and officially counted upon. In this respect the Stockholmers show a confident carelessness which is always a surprise to strangers and causes them some uneasiness. In the theaters and concert halls there are large cloakrooms, where hats and furs are left without the smallest safeguard. The performance over, each one again takes possession of his effects, nor does an "accident" ever occur. The inhabitants are accustomed to expect a reciprocal probity in the transactions of everyday life. Upon most of the tramways in Stockholm conductors have been dispensed with. The passenger himself deposits 10 ore in a till placed at the end of the vehicle, behind the driver.

Great Japanese Bridge.

Japanese ambition contemplates the erection across the straits of Shimonoseki of a bridge to connect the Kingsu railway with that of the Samyo railway, from Shimonoeski to Hiogo, thus enabling passengers to proceed uninterrupted from the southern extremity of Kinsui to the extreme north of the mainland. As the straits are a mile wide, with a current often running eight miles an hour, and, as the bridge must allow the passage of the largest steamships beneath it, the colossal structure will, if successfully completed, enable the Japanese to boast of an engineering feat so far unequaled in the world.

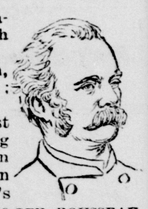
THIS DAY IN HISTORY



GEN. ROUSSEAU.

1715—Fenelon (Francois de Salignac de la Mothi), French writer, died; born 1651.
1718—General Israel Putnam, born in Danvers, Mass.; died 1790.
1768—Joseph Bonaparte, eldest brother of Napoleon, king of Naples and Spain, born at Corti, Corsica; died in England 1844. Joseph's reign in Spain, from 1808 to 1813, was only a nominal one. The Spaniards refused to acknowledge him, and Napoleon only kept them in subjection by maintaining powerful armies in the peninsula under his favorite marshals, Soult, Massena and Suchet, who were responsible to the emperor. After the battle of Waterloo he emigrated to the United States and resided at Bordentown, N. J., until the accession of Louis Philippe in 1830, when he returned to Europe.
1809—General Lovell Harrison Rousseau, noted veteran of the Federal army in the west, died in New Orleans; born in Kentucky 1818.
1890—The Empress Augusta, widow of Emperor William, died in Berlin; born 1811.
1891—Balmaceda assumed dictatorship in Chile; beginning of the Chilean civil war.
1892—Tufik Pasha, khedive of Egypt, died; aged 40.
1896—Colonel Thomas W. Knox, civil war correspondent, traveler and author, died in New York city; born 1835.

The national census bureau would be in competent hands with Henry Casson in charge. Secretary Casson added greated to the importance of the Wisconsin state census by the features that he introduced.

BOOK OF PHOTOGRAPHS.

Goood Way of Putting Pictures Into a Handy Form.

A new way of making up a number of pictures into book form is to print them on paper enough larger than the pcitures to leave a wide margin, and instead of mounting them on boards, to make them up into a book, using heavy water-color paper for the covers, says Harper's Round Table. Bromide and platinotype papers are the best for this purpose, as they are of firm texture, and do not curl or crack if left unmounted. If the amateur has never used either of these, and wishes to make a book after the directions given, the platinotype will be found the easier paper to manage. For 4 by 5 or 5 by 7 pictures paper 6½ by 8½ is a good size. Platinotype paper or bromide paper of this size costs comparatively little.

In order to have a margin all around the picture the extra paper must be covered with nonactinic paper made into what is called a mask. Take a piece of black needle-paper a little larger than the sheet of sensitive paper, and in the center cut an opening the exact size the picture is to be when printed. It should be small enough to cover the edges of the negative and hide such portions as are not an addition to the picture. Attach this mask to the film side of the picture by adhesive strips, which may be bought ready gummed for use. In placing the sensitive paper over the negative it should be arranged so that the print will come half an ich nearer to what is to be the front edge of the book. The picture will then be in the center of the page when the leaves are bound together. Do not have the pictures the same size and shape. If there are to be four pictures in a book, make one an oblong, another a panel, vignette another and use a half-vignette and a half-circle for the fourth. An 8 by 10 printing frame is none too large for making the prints, as it allows one to adjust the negative and paper better than a frame the exact size of the print.

Relief for Tired Saleswomen.

Not only the saleswomen complain, but trained nurses often suffer from swollen feet, especially when they first go into hospitals. A powder which is much used in the German army for sifting into the shoes and stockings of the infantry soldiers might be of service. It consists of three parts of salicylic acid, ten parts of starch and eighty-seven parts of pulverized soapstone. This keeps the feet dry, prevents chafing and heals any sore spots. The soapstone alone, without the other ingredients, has also been found useful and soap alone will give relief when well rubbed over the sole of the stocking.

Map 1,500 Years Old.

A map of Jerusalem in mosaic, over 1,500 years old, has been found at Madaba, Palestine. It was discovered in uncovering the ruins of an old church about to be rebuilt. The entire pavement of the old church was a mosaic map of Palestine, many parts of which had been worn away or broken off. That part containing the city of Jerusalem was more or less perfect, only a part of the walls at the southeast corner being missing.

IRON HORSE IN SOUTH AFRICA

Great Strides in Railway Building the Past Few Years.

From the London Chronicle: Railway activity in south Africa is of comparatively modern origin, but in the course of a few short years it has been pushed on with almost feverish haste, so that at the present time the iron horse has actually entered Bulawayo, and there is serious talk of extending the system to the once mysterious Zambesi. Although we finally succeeded the Dutch as rulers in the Cape Colony in 1806, it was not till 1859 that the first railway was commenced, and extensions went on slowly till the discovery of diamonds in Griqualand West gave an impetus to trade and traffic in south Africa. Even then the railway halted for years at a sleepy town on the edge of the silent Karroo known as Beaufort West, and thence the journey had to be made to Kimberley, according to the means or tastes of the passenger, by post cart, with drivers reckless of life and limb; the lumbering stagecoach or "prairie schooner" drawn by vicious mules or slumberous oxen.

There are many prosperous city men—and even millionaires—still in the prime of life who well remember that awful journey across the veldt from Beaufort West—the glaring heat by day, the cold by night, the lurching vehicles, the whirling sand as it came down the breeze, the scanty provisions, the miserable "outspans," and at last the sounds of distant dynamite explosions which bespoke the nearness of the city of dust and diamonds. The military operations in Bechuanaland led to the continuation of the line, with the active assistance of the home government, right up to Kimberley. Meantime the agricultural districts of the Cape Colony had been opened up, thanks mainly to the pressure which the farmers brought to bear on the government of the day, and in 1890 the gold discoveries in the Transvaal led to another spurt in railway building. Some of the short lines at the cape pass through very beautiful scenery, such as those which run through the pine-clad slopes of Wynberg, and away in the other direction to Sea Point—the Brighton of the cape—but for grandeur few in the world can compare with the railway which climbs the barrier range of the Hex River mountains. The line ascends by wonderful curves and zig-zags, giving the passengers fearsome views of the depths below, with the nestling farms and vineyards of the fertile valley. Capped with snow, the surrounding mountain peaks, some of them 6,000 feet high, present a grand appearance; and engineering skill has pierced through perpendicular rocks by means of cuttings and tunnels. The history of railway extension in south Africa is assuredly a romance of real life.

WHEN THE BALLET REHEARSES.

Nondescript Costumes on the Pretty, Simple Young Girls.

I learned that ballet dancers, when they rehearsed, wear a nondescript costume that is most amusing, consisting of white trousers gathered in at the knee, over which are their fluffy tarlatan skirts, and on top the ordinary waists of their dresses, says Harper's Bazar. The effect is something like that of those Nuremberg paper dolls in three parts, over which we used to scream so with laughter as children in putting incongruous heads and skirts on the same body. A serious looking plaid blouse, finished in what might have been a powder puff of tarlatan. A tailor-made jacket of light cloth, worn with blue stock, looked oddly enough above the fluffy white petticoats. Half the girls wore cheap little shirt waists, as plain as those of an American school girl. They all looked young and simple, had pretty figures, and seemed to be having a thoroughly good time. Those who were not on the stage sat seriously in the boxes and knitted or crocheted. The premiere danseuse had a cold and wore her ordinary street dress. She was a slim Italian girl of 17, with great Italian eyes and soft brown hair, who partly supports her mother on her somewhat meager salary and lives what is never questioned as a perfectly honest and virtuous life. One reads the details of it in her simple black dress, evidently made at home, without slightest thought of coquetry, and a last year's green velvet hat, trimmed with cock's feathers that time had caused to droop somewhat mournfully. She smiled and dimpled as she caught sight of Mme. Lacour, and a little later, as the band of coryphees rehearsed over and over again the intricacies of the "chain dance," and all the other dances, in response to a sign from the author, she and Don Juan, in the person of a slender French girl with short, curly blond hair, came and joined us in our loge. The "star" told us that she loved to dance better than to do anything else in the world. She was born loving it; but, unlike little Morleena Kenwigs, or any of those infant phenomena of whom we read, who execute the most astonishing pas when their feet have scarcely learned to walk alone, she only began her artistic training at the age of 11. At 15 she made her debut as premiere in a grand ballet in Florence. She was not at all afraid. The more people there were and the more she had to do the happier she was in dancing. They said she was successful because she always smiled. She smiled because she loved it.

Compelled To.

Mrs. Myles—"Is any one paying attention to that Higgins girl now?" Mrs. Styles—"Well, I should rather say so! She's got a new piano and every one on the block is paying attention to her."—Yonkers Statesman.

Her Chance Came.

Mrs. Gilson—You know how uppish Mrs. Wilson has always been with me, and so condescending whenever she has had to speak to me?

Mr. Gilson (dryly)—I have heard you speak of it.

Mrs. Gilson—Well, I met her in town to-day and I had the pleasure of telling her that her skirt was hanging an inch below her dress.—Somerville Journal.

Guileless Creature.

Miss de Muir—Was there ever anything peculiar about Mr. Clubbins' father?

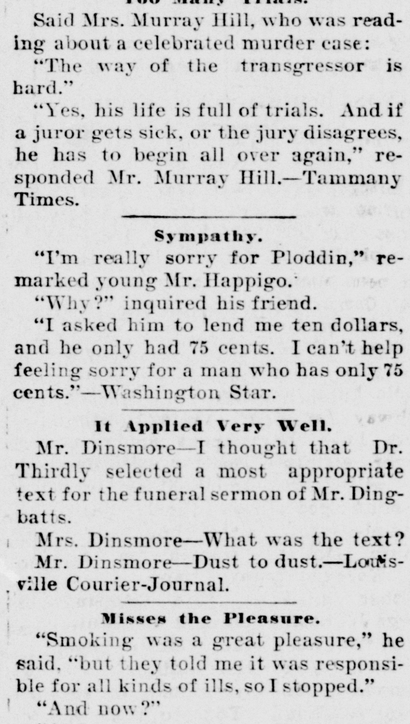
Miss de Phacks—Nothing except that he was a strikingly handsome man.

Miss de Muir (at reception a few days later)—Mr. Clubbins, how wonderfully you resemble the portraits I have seen of your father!—Chicago Tribune.

Poetry vs. Prose.

The poet raves of the beautiful hair
That crowns his fair idol's head,
And calls the man a prosy old bear
Who ignores its splendors instead.
Yes, the poet of it makes a fad,
Its glories in verse he will group;
But like other mortals he's mad
If a strand of it gets in the soup.
—Chicago Daily News.

PERHAPS SO.



"Your washerwoman treats you with great respect," said Jigg. "She must think you are wealthy."

"I guess she does," said Jugg. "At any rate, she must think that I have clothes to burn."—N. Y. World.

Throwing.

After all is done and said,
The ordinary maid
Is pretty good at throwing when she tries;
Just see the dust she's thrown—
Yes, usually his own—
Since the dawn of time in man's poor blinking eyes!
—Puck.

Too Many Trials.

Said Mrs. Murray Hill, who was reading about a celebrated murder case:

"The way of the transgressor is hard."

"Yes, his life is full of trials. And if a juror gets sick, or the jury disagrees, he has to begin all over again," responded Mr. Murray Hill.—Tammany Times.

Sympathy.

"I'm really sorry for Ploddin," remarked young Mr. Happigo.

"Why?" inquired his friend.

"I asked him to lend me ten dollars, and he only had 75 cents. I can't help feeling sorry for a man who has only 75 cents."—Washington Star.

It Applied Very Well.

Mr. Dinsmore—I thought that Dr. Thirdly selected a most appropriate text for the funeral sermon of Mr. Dingbatts.

Mrs. Dinsmore—What was the text?

Mr. Dinsmore—Dust to dust.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Misses the Pleasure.

"Smoking was a great pleasure," he said, "but they told me it was responsible for all kinds of ills, so I stopped."

"And now?"

"And now I haven't anything but the ills."—Chicago Post.

Nurseriana.

Little Chris—O, mamma, mamma, baby's moulted again.

Mamma—Moulted! What do you mean?

Little Chris—Why, he's just dropped another tooth!—London Punch.

The Finishing Touch.

"How are you getting along with that submarine boat of yours, Flightly?"

"Elegantly. I have so far perfected it that it sinks beautifully. All that I have to do now is to get it running nicely under water."—Detroit Free Press.

His Proposal.

"He said he wasn't good enough for me—"

"Well?"

"And when I asked him whether he gambled or drank he got mad and went away."—Chicago Record.

Mrs. Hashwell's Tart Retort.

Boarder (warmly)—Oh, I'm knowing to the tricks of your trade. Do you think I have lived in boarding houses 20 years for nothing?

Landlady (frigidly)—I shouldn't be at all surprised.—Detroit Journal.

Lightly Spoken.

Mr. Richfello—How pretty Miss Beauti looks to-night.

Rival Belle—Yes. How miserably poor the electric lights have become lately. They are dimmer than gas.—N. Y. Weekly.

Not What He Wanted.

"No, sir," exclaimed the irate father, "my daughter can never be yours."

"I don't want her to be my daughter," calmly replied the young man, "I want her to be my wife."—Chicago News.

A Definition.

Schoolmaster—What is a synonym?

Tommy Sharpe—It is a word you can use in place of another when you don't know how to spell the other one.—Scraps.

Told in a Whisper.

"Is that one of your servants, madam?"

"No, no! Don't speak so loud. That's the cook."—Detroit Free Press.

NEW TRIAL DENIED IN CROUSE SUIT

RAILWAY COMPANY'S MOTION OVERRULED

Arguments Were Made This Morning, But Judge Bennett Decided In the Plaintiff's Favor—Appeal to the Supreme Court Next—Other Court Cases.

George Crouse, the engineer, who was recently awarded $20,000 damages by a Rock county jury, won this morning his second victory against the Chicago & Northwestern Railway company. When the case came up in the circuit court for argument on the application for a new trial, Judge John R. Bennett overruled the motion made by Attorney C. H. Van Alstine, and the case will not again be tried in the local courts.

This ruling does not mean that the case will end where it is, and Mr. Crouse will not yet be paid the damages awarded. The C. & N. W. Co. propose to fight the case in the higher courts. They will appeal to the supreme court.

Divorce Is Granted.

With her face beaming with smiles, Jennie E Simpson walked out of the circuit court chamber this morning. She smiled because when Cornelius Buckley, of Beloit, her legal adviser, laid her troubles before the court, Judge Bennett granted her a decree which freed her from her husband, Lewis Simpson. The interested parties are young in years and reside near Beloit.

Goldin Is Referee.

On reading and filing the stipulation in the case of George G. Sutherland et al., vs. Julius Bartz et al., the court ordered that Theodore W. Goldin, the clerk of the court, be appointed referee to hear, try and determine the issue herein, and report his decision to the court.

Case Is Dismissed.

In the case of John Dale et al. vs. Hausman Brewing Co., the plaintiffs, it appeared to the court, have failed to comply with the order of the court and file the bond directed to be filed. On motion of Harper & Harper, attorneys for the defendant, the court then ordered that the injunctional order be vacated and set aside without costs to either party.

SAYS HER HUSBAND NEEDS ATTENTION

JOSEPH ZOSTOUPEL IS NOW IN JAIL.

Police Were Called to the Home Last Night But Found That He Had Quieted Down—Family Came Here From Beaver Dam And Are In Poor Circumstances.

Mrs. Joseph Zostoupel said today that she wanted her husband examined by physicians, as she thinks he may be insane. Zostoupel, she said, threatened to kill, last night. He is now behind the bars of the county jail and his wife says she believes he is not responsible for his actions.

Zostoupel, on the other hand, says that he is not insane and that if his wife goes to the poor house as she has threatened to do, he will apply for a divorce on the grounds of desertion.

The Zostoupel home is located near the corner of Holmes and Locust streets. The family consists of three small children besides the father and mother. They have had there share of sorrow since their arrival in this city last February from Beaver Dam. Mrs. Zostoupel is said to be a sufferer as the result of being hit with a base ball while a resident of Beaver Dam. Mr. Zostoupel since his arrival here has been in poor circumstances and he has had to ask help from Poormaster Kenyon. Last evening, it is charged, he became angry and for a time it was thought that he would do harm to both himself and his family. Officers Brown and Appleby were called but when they arrived the man had quieted down.

Mrs. Zostoupel stated today that she knows of no better way than to go and live with relatives in Minnesota, for she thinks that her husband is insane and that he is unable to support her and her children. At the jail this afternoon the alleged insane man was apparently enjoying life and did not look as if he was hopelessly crazy. Local authorities will look into his case and will probably have him examined as the wife requests.

Surprise Is Perpetrated On Mr. and Mrs. Dennett.

Last evening as Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dennett had settled themselves for a quiet evening the door opened and friends and neighbors from city and country swarmed in, about sixty in number loaded the baskets and bundles and informed them that it was "their twentieth wedding anniversary." They ate drank and was merry until the wee small hours; and Mr. and Mrs Dennett will have pleasant remembrances of their china wedding as they were kindly remembered with many beautiful pieces of china

FULTON COUPLE WAS SURPRISED

Wedding Day Anniversary Was Very Pleasantly Celebrated.

Fulton, Jan. 7—A very pleasant surprise was given Mr. and Mrs. James Kocher by about thirty of their old friends, Dec 28. The party had been planned by their daughter, Mrs. Carrie Saxby at whose home they all met and marched to Mr. Kochers. They were taken completely by surprise. This worthy couple have journeyed along life's pathway for fifty years together. Forty have been spent among us. Prayer, scripture reading and music that will be remembered by those present helped to make the day one of great pleasure. As the time for departure came all wished Mr. and Mrs. Kocher many happy years together of this life's blessing. George Johnson Sundayed in Whitewater, with his mother. Frank Pease is quite lame from rheumatism. School commenced Monday, after a two weeks' vacation. Tobacco stripping is well under way, some having finished. Orrin Parmley has his crop almost assorted; only one sale reported in this place so far. John Oberge selling his small crop to A. N Jones of Janesville, for 7½ in the bundle. Mr. Mary Murwin and son Claude, passed last Friday in Janesville. Fred D. Monell returned to his home in Chicago, after a very pleasant holiday visit with relatives and friends. E. D. Bliss of Milton Junction, the hustling sewing machine agent, did business in town Monday. Mrs. Ina Johnson passed Thursday in Janesville, shopping. A musical entertainment will be given in the church Friday evening, Jan. 17, by the O. E society. A good program is being prepared which all should try and hear. Oliver Murwin had a very narrow escape from what might have proved a fatal fall New Years eve. He stepped backwards down the cellar stairs in the store landing at the foot of the stairs. Aside from a general shaking up no damage was done. Such falls prove fatal many times Mr. Childs passed a part of the week with relatives in Milton.

The Home of a Genius.

Beethoven was born in a small house in Bonn. His father had inherited the vice of drinking, and often Beethoven and his younger brother was obliged to take their intoxicated father home. He was never known to utter an unkind word about the man who had made his youth so unhappy, and he never failed to resent it when a third person spoke uncharitably of his father's frailty. Young Beethoven was thus taught many a severe lesson in the hard school of adversity. But his trials were not without advantage to him. They gave to his character that iron texture which upheld him under his heaviest burdens.

Progress of Canadian Women.

In the dominion of Canada women have municipal suffrage in every province and also in the northwest territories. In Ontario they vote for all elective offices, except in the election of members of the legislature and parliament.

DECKER IS SENT TO THE ASYLUM

WELL KNOWN FARMER IS INSANE

Friends Feared That He Would Injure Himself Or Someone Else, and So Decided to Have Him Cared For—Took Treatment There Once Before Some Years Ago

After living for weeks in constant fear that Jonathan Decker, of the town of Harmony, would either kill himself or injure others, relatives have at last decided to have him examined to determine his sanity. This morning relatives brought the unfortunate man to this city and placed him in care of Sheriff Acheson. Physicians were then secured to examine him. They decided that his mind was unbalanced, and recommended that he be committed to some insane hospital for treatment and safe keeping.

Although he was not violent, the sufferer kept up constant talk to himself on matters which pertained to nothing in particular. This morning Sheriff Acheson notified Mr. Decker to make ready for his trip north and the noon train took the patient to Mendota hospital. The case is a particularly sad one. The unfortunate man is one of the prominent farmers in the county and is well along in years. Several years ago he became subject to sick spells that affected his mind and at that time he was sent to a hospital in the hopes that treatment might restore his health. On his return home he seemed to be much improved in general health and his mind at all times seemed to be clear. During the past few weeks members of the family have noticed that he had begun to show signs of derangement again and rather than run the risk of having him injure himself or others they deemed it best policy to have him cared for.

Ingenious Laundry Advertisement.

While this is not exactly the castle-in-the-air age, yet there are thousands of persons who spend a very small portion of their time on terra firma. This is due to the "skyscrapers," where the upper floors are honeycombed with offices. Enterprising merchants have taken advantage of the fact and are trying everything in their power to attract the attention of this elevated army, whose fleeting glimpse of the world is obtained from lofty windows. The latest scheme is one projected by a laundry, which employs dozens of covered wagons. On the top of the wagon cover is painted in glaring letters the name of the firm, and those who look down from above can read as the vehicles run by.

Nineteen Months Without Food.

A rattlesnake that has been in a showcase in Idaho Falls for the last nineteen months died Oct. 30, probably from starvation. He was captured among the lava rocks about the 20th or 25th of March, 1896, and placed in the case. He was given mice, lizards and meat of various kinds, but would never touch any of them, consequently his fast was nineteen months and a few days. Another snake was placed in the case with him, but lived only a few months.

The Birth of the "Greater" New York.

With the dawn of the new year the "Greater" New York is ushered into the world a full grown giant. The problem of municipal government in this country is to be put to the supremest test on the grandest scale. Within its limits is contained a population equal to that of thirteen of our sovereign States at the last census, and as large as that of the original thirteen States when the union was organized. Provisions for the life and health of this vast multitude of all nations and climes is an unsolvived enigma, but profiting by the experience of half a century's success, thousands of sufferers in New York and elsewhere can be wrested from the grasp of that agonizing complaint, rheumatism, by the timely and systematic use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is, moreover, a preventive of malaria and kidney trouble, and a sovereign curative of liver complaint, constipation, dyspepsia, debility, sick headache and nervousness. It is an admirable appetizer and promoter of sleep, hastens convalescence, and counteracts the infirmities of age.

YOU MAY WORRY ALONG WITHOUT The STAR Milwaukee Blatz Beer

in your home, but you shouldn't, for as a family beer it has no equal. It is pure, it is nourishing, and its fine flavor and taste give continual pleasure.

Good Printing...

Is like good painting—it demands and obtains a second glance. The second glance leads to thought about and knowledge of the thing portrayed, and then on to the artist or advertiser.

The kind of printing as well as the kind of painting that it pays to do and to have done is that which obtains this "second glance." Plenty of the other kind!

To Cure Nervous Dyspepsia.

To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Mean, Make a Test of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Interesting Experience of an Indianapolis Gentleman.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think that their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicine and spring remedies; the real seat of the mischief is lost sight of; the stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspeptics often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every other organ; in some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite, with accumulation of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

Mr. A. W. Sharper of No. 61 Prospect St., Indianapolis, Ind., writes as follows: "A motive of pure gratitude prompts me to write these few lines regarding the new and valuable medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I have been a sufferer from nervous dyspepsia for the last four years; have used various patent medicines and other remedies without any favorable result. They sometimes gave temporary relief until the effects of the medicine wore off. I attributed this to my sedentary habits, being a bookkeeper with little physical exercise, but I am glad to state that the tablets have overcome all these obstacles, for I have gained in flesh, sleep better, and am better in every way. The above is written not for notoriety, but is based on actual fact."

Respectfully yours,
A. W. SHARPER,
61 Prospect St., Indianapolis, Ind.

THE TURN OF LIFE

Is the most important period in a woman's existence. Owing to modern methods of living, not one woman in a thousand approaches this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms.

Those dreadful hot flashes, sending the blood surging to the heart until it seems ready to burst, and the faint feeling that follows, sometimes with chills, as if the heart were going to stop for good, are symptoms of a dangerous nervous trouble. Those hot flashes are just so many calls from nature for help. The nerves are crying out for assistance. The cry should be heeded in time. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was prepared to meet the needs of woman's system at this trying period of her life.

The Vegetable Compound is an invigorating strengthener of the female organism. It builds up the weakened nervous system and enables a woman to pass that grand change triumphantly.

It does not seem necessary for us to prove the honesty of our statements, but it is a pleasure to publish such grateful words as the following:

"I have been using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for some time during the change of life and it has been a saviour of life unto me. I can cheerfully recommend your medicine to all women, and I know it will give permanent relief. I would be glad to relate my experience to any sufferer."—MRS. DELLA WATSON, 524 West 5th St., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Englishman Made a Mistake.

An Englishman was once persuaded to see a game of baseball, and during the play, when he happened to look away for a moment, a foul tip caught him on the ear and knocked him senseless. On coming to himself he asked, faintly, "What was it?" "A foul—only a foul." "Good heavens!" he exclaimed, "I thought it was a mule."
